NOTICE OF (I) DISCLOSURE PROCEDURES
APPLICABLE TO CERTAIN HOLDERS OF COMMON STOCK OR PREFERRED STOCK, (II) DISCLOSURE
PROCEDURES FOR TRANSFERS OF COMMON STOCK AND PREFERRED STOCK

TO: ALL ENTITIES (AS DEFINED BY SECTION 101(15) OF THE BANKRUPTCY CODE) THAT MAY HOLD BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP OF THE COMMON STOCK (THE "COMMON STOCK") OR SERIES A CONVERTIBLE PREFERRED STOCK (THE "PREFERRED STOCK") OF BED BATH & BEYOND INC.:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on April 23, 2023 (the "Petition Date"), the above-captioned debtors and debtors in possession (collectively, the "Debtors"), filed petitions with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of New Jersey (the "Court") under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code"). Subject to certain exceptions, section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code operates as a stay of any act to obtain possession of property of or from the Debtors' estates or to exercise control over property of or from the Debtors' estates.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that on the Petition Date, the Debtors filed the Debtors' Motion for Entry of Interim and Final Orders (i) Approving Notification and Hearing Procedures for Certain Transfers of Common Stock and Preferred Stock and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 23] (the "Motion").

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that on May 31, 2023, the Court entered the Final Order (i) Approving Notification and Hearing Procedures for Certain Transfers of Common Stock and Preferred Stock and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 587] (the "Final Order") approving procedures for certain transfers of Common Stock and Preferred Stock set forth in Exhibit 1 attached to the Final Order (the "Procedures").²

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that, pursuant to the Final Order, a Substantial Shareholder may not consummate any purchase, sale, or other transfer of Common Stock or Preferred Stock, Beneficial Ownership of Common Stock or Preferred Stock, in violation of the Procedures, and any such transaction in violation of the Procedures shall be null and void ab initio.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that, pursuant to the Final Order, the Procedures shall apply to the holding and transfers of Common Stock or Preferred Stock, or any Beneficial Ownership therein by a Substantial Shareholder or someone who may become a Substantial Shareholder.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that, pursuant to the Final Order, upon the request of any entity, the proposed noticing, claims, and solicitation agent for the Debtors, Kroll Restructuring Administration LLC, will provide a copy of the Final Order and a form of each of the declarations required to be filed by the Procedures in a reasonable period of time. Such declarations are also available via PACER on the Court's website at <https://ecf.nj.uscourts.gov/> for a fee or free of charge by accessing the Debtors' restructuring website at <https://restructuring.ra.kroll.com/bbby>.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that, pursuant to the Final Order, failure to follow the procedures set forth in the Final Order shall constitute a violation of, among other things, the automatic stay provisions of section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that nothing in the Final Order shall preclude any person desirous of acquiring any Common Stock or Preferred Stock from requesting relief from the Final Order from this Court, subject to the Debtors' and the other Notice Parties' rights to oppose such relief.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that other than to the extent that the Final Order expressly conditions or restricts trading in Common Stock or Preferred Stock, nothing in the Final Order or in the Motion shall, or shall be deemed to, prejudice, impair, or otherwise alter or affect the rights of any holders of Common Stock or Preferred Stock, including in connection with the treatment of any such stock under any chapter 11 plan or any applicable bankruptcy court order.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that any prohibited purchase, sale, other transfer of Common Stock or Preferred Stock, or the Beneficial Ownership thereof in violation of the Final Order is prohibited and shall be null and void ab initio and may be subject to additional sanctions as this court may determine.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the requirements set forth in the Final Order are in addition to the requirements of applicable law and do not excuse compliance therewith.

Turkey's Lira Erodes as a Re-elected Erdogan Pursues Risky Policies

medicine, energy, fertilizer and automobile parts — rises, making it more expensive for consumers to afford daily costs. And it raises the size of debt payments for businesses and households that have borrowed money from foreign lenders.

The national budget is also coming under increasing strains. The destructive earthquakes in February that ripped up swaths of southern Turkey are estimated to have caused more than a billion dollars in damage, roughly 9 percent of the country's annual economic output.

At the same time, Mr. Erdogan went on a pre-election spending spree to attract voters, increasing salaries for public sector workers and payouts for retirees and offering households a month of free natural gas. The expenditures pushed up growth, but economists fear that such outlays will feed inflation.

An effort to encourage Turks to keep their savings in lira by guaranteeing their balances against currency depreciations further adds to the government's potential liabilities.

Critics of the president's economic approach were somewhat heartened by reports that Mr. Erdogan was expected over the weekend to appoint Mehmet Simsek, a former finance minister and deputy prime minister, to the cabinet. Mr. Simsek is well thought of in financial circles and has previously supported a tighter monetary policy.

“What Turkey really needs now is more exports and more foreign direct investment, and for that you have to send a signal,” said Henri Barkey, an international relations professor at Lehigh University. One signal could be Mr. Simsek's appointment, he said.

SERGEY PONOMAREV FOR THE NEW YORK TIMES

The Grand Bazaar in Kayseri, Turkey, in April. Analysts believe President Recep Tayyip Erdogan's policies have fueled inflation and cut the value of the lira.

Mr. Barkey argues that Mr. Erdogan will have no choice but to make a U-turn on policy by winter, when energy import costs rise and some debt payments are due.

Others are more skeptical that Mr. Erdogan will back down from his insistence that high interest rates fuel inflation. Kadri Tastan, a senior fellow at the German Marshall Fund, a public policy think tank based in Brussels, said that regardless of the cabinet's make-up, he didn't believe a policy turnaround was imminent.

“I'm quite pessimistic about an enormous change, of course,” he said.

To deal with the large external deficit and depleted central bank reserves, Mr. Erdogan has been relying on allies like Russia, Qatar and Saudi Arabia to help bolster its reserves by depositing dollars with the central bank or extending payment deadlines and discounts for imported goods like natural gas.

In a note to investors last week, Capital Economics wrote that any optimism about a policy shift was likely to be short-lived: “While policymakers like Simsek would probably pursue more restrained fiscal policy than we had envisaged, we doubt Erdogan would give the central bank license to hike policy rates to restore balance to the economy.”

Turkey's more than $900 billion economy makes it the eighth largest in Europe. And Mr. Erdogan's efforts to position himself as a power broker between Russia and the European allies since the war in Ukraine began has further underscored Turkey's geopolitical influence.

Mr. Erdogan, who has been in power for two decades, built his electoral success on growth-oriented policies that lifted millions of Turks into the middle class. But the pumped-up expansion wasn't sustainable.

The borrowing frenzy drove up prices, spurring a cost-of-living crisis. Still, Mr. Erdogan persisted in lowering interest rates and fired central bank chiefs who disagreed with him. The pandemic exacerbated problems by reducing demand for Turkish exports and limiting tourism, a large source of income.

Mr. Erdogan is likely to keep up his expansionary policies until the next local elections take place next year. Until then, Hakan Kara, the former chief economist of the Central Bank of Turkey, said the country would probably just “muddle through.”

“Turkish authorities will have to make tough decisions after the local elections, as something has to give in eventually,” Mr. Kara said. “Turkey has to either switch back to conventional policies, or further deviate from the free market economy where the central authority manages the economy through micro-control measures.”

“In either case,” he added, “the adjustment is likely to be painful.”

Major Oil Producers Say They Are Cutting Output To Stem a Slide in Prices

quotas of several countries, with the United Arab Emirates gaining and some others losing production levels. “This is definitely not a clean and simple deal,” said Richard Bronze, head of geopolitics at Energy Aspects, a research firm.

The agreement includes a voluntary cut of 500,000 barrels a day that Moscow announced in February.

Comments at the news conference after the meeting revealed skepticism that Russia was abiding by those lower production levels. High Russian production levels, and its increased share of Asian markets including India, often at the expense of Middle East oil producers, have become a sensitive issue in the group.

Some of the data “from Russia just does not add up,” said Suhail al Mazrouei, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates. He said Russian officials “are reaching out to explain the numbers.”

OPEC Plus, in a statement, said that it was acting “to achieve and sustain a stable oil market,” and that it was continuing its recent approach of being “proactive, and pre-emptive.”

As far as the markets are concerned, the key feature of the agreement is the additional production cut by Saudi Arabia, which would bring its daily output to about nine million barrels a day. The Saudi oil minister, Prince Abdulaziz bin Salman, called the move “the Saudi lollipop” while announcing it during the news conference.

After suggesting that cuts were in the offing before the meeting, Prince Abdulaziz wound up being the only official to agree to take an immediate hit.

He may have won some long-term concessions. With this agreement, OPEC Plus is trying to address longstanding discrepancies that have made some of the group's production decisions almost incomprehensible. For instance, some oil producing countries including Nigeria and Angola have for years not been able to meet their targets because of insufficient investment and other issues. They are taking hits to their quotas, starting in 2024.

At the same time, the United Arab Emirates, which is investing billions to increase its capacity to produce oil, was a modest winner on Sunday, gaining an increased quota of 200,000 barrels a day, beginning in 2024. The United Arab Emirates has long sought to produce more oil, even staging a rare public fight with the Saudis in 2021 and suggesting it might leave OPEC.

With oil vital to the economies and governments of many of these countries, it was not surprising that the tricky issue of addressing quotas produced a meeting that ran well into the evening in Vienna.

Mr. Bronze of Energy Aspects said the agreement tried to tackle issues that had bedeviled the group. “I do think as the market digests the details, there is real substance here,” he said.

The oil officials met over the weekend to decide what to do about markets that had weakened in recent weeks. Prince Abdulaziz had been particularly vocal about warning that the group might cut production to shore up prices and trip up traders betting on lower prices.

Other producers, including Russia, have been less enthusiastic about scaling back production.

Sunday's meeting occurred only two months after OPEC Plus announced an earlier round of cuts. Those trims began in May and have had little time to make an impact. Analysts also say that the oil markets — where prices have slipped about 12 percent since mid-April — have been heavily influenced by broader economic factors, including China's weaker-than-expected economic growth since the end of its “zero Covid” policies. That could lessen the impact of supply cuts.

General Claims Bar Date (Applicable to 503(b)(9) Claims). All Claimants holding or wishing to assert a Claim must submit a Proof of Claim with respect to such Claim so as to be actually received by the Notice and Claims Agent by July 7, 2023 (the “General Claims Bar Date”), including parties asserting Claims pursuant to section 503(b)(9) of the Bankruptcy Code.

Governmental Bar Date. All governmental units holding or wishing to assert a Claim against the Debtors arising (or deemed to arise) before the Petition Date (whether secured, unsecured priority or unsecured non-priority) must submit a Proof of Claim so as to be actually received by the Notice and Claims Agent by October 20, 2023 (the “Governmental Bar Date”).

Amended Schedules Bar Date. In the event the Debtors amend or supplement their Schedules, the Debtors shall give notice of any such amendment to the holders of any Claim affected thereby, and such holders shall submit their Claims by the later of (a) the applicable Bar Date and (b) the date that is thirty calendar days after such person or entity is served with notice that the Debtors has amended its Schedules in a manner that affects such person or entity (any such date, a “Amended Schedules Bar Date”).

Rejection Dates or Claims Bar Date. If you have a Claim arising from the rejection of an executory contract or unexpired lease, you must submit a Proof of Claim against such rejection on or before the later of (a) the General Claims Bar Date, (b) any date this Court may fix in the applicable Amended Schedules, and (c) the date that is thirty calendar days after the effective date of such rejection of an executory contract or unexpired lease (the “Rejection Damages Bar Date”). The Debtors will provide notice of the Rejection Damages Bar Date to the contract or lease counterparty whose contract or lease is being rejected at the time the Debtors reject any executory contract or unexpired lease.

Administrative Claims Bar Date. All Claimants holding or wishing to assert an Administrative Expense Claim for costs and expenses of administration of the estates pursuant to sections 503(b), other than claims pursuant to section 503(b)(9), or 507(a)(12) of the Bankruptcy Code must submit a Proof of Claim by (a) July 7, 2023 for Claims incurred through June 27, 2023, (b) for all Claims arising after June 27, 2023, the 15th day of the month following the month in which the Claim arose, and (c) fourteen days following the date of any confirmed plan (the “Administrative Claims Bar Date”). provided, however, that notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, counterparties to unexpired leases of non-residential real property— which leases have not been assumed, assigned or rejected— shall be required to file Administrative Claims no later than July 21, 2023.

When and Where To Submit. Each Proof of Claim, including supporting documentation, must be submitted so that the Notice and Claims Agent actually receives the Proof of Claim on or before the applicable Bar Date by: (i) electronically using the interface available on the Notice and Claims Agent’s website at <https://restructuring.ra.kroll.com/bbby>, (ii) first-class U.S. Mail, which Proof of Claim must include an original signature, at the following address: Bed Bath & Beyond Inc., Claims Processing Center, c/o Kroll Restructuring Administration LLC, Grand Central Station, PO Box 4850, New York, NY 10163, or (iii) overnight

Washington reached a deal on the debt ceiling, prices for Brent crude, the international benchmark, rose about $3 a barrel to about $76, but prices remain slightly below their levels on the eve of the April cut.

Saudi Arabia's announcement comes a couple of days before the U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken is scheduled to visit the country for talks with Saudi leaders.

Saudi Arabia is the de facto leader of OPEC Plus, and under Prince Abdulaziz and his younger half brother, Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, the country has become more aggressive in its oil policies than in the past, preferring to make cuts in an effort to keep a floor under prices rather than letting markets take their course.

Crown Prince Mohammed, the kingdom's main policymaker, wants high oil revenues to finance his ambitious development plans.

Although OPEC does not publish price targets and its officials say they take a long-term view, analysts say the Saudis are now uncomfortable with prices below $80 a barrel for Brent crude. With OPEC Plus producing more than 40 percent of global oil supplies, the group can exert considerable sway over markets if it tries hard enough.

In the past, Saudi-led OPEC trims have set off friction with the Biden administration, which wants to keep oil prices down to ease pressure on American drivers and to avoid putting a brake on the already weak global economy.
